THE MINERAL WEALTH OF NORTHERN INDIA.

The mineral wealth of India is but very imperfectly apprehended. Many districts are known to contain a variety of ores, but few are willing to attempt their working, Between Kussowlis, Dugshal, and Simla, there are two silver mines and a lead and copper mine. chief drawback to working them is the scarcity of fuel, but this disadvautage should be removed by a railway, as coal has been found comparative. iv close at hand. Coal has recently been found in the Belan Pass, and a quantity has been collected for trial on the railway. Its quality seems to be doubtful as it is surface coal taken where the seams are visible, but it is probable that coal of good quality is to be found at no great depth. Coal seems to occur also on the surface of the hills in the Khejak Pass, and this coal is said to be of superior quality. A few miles north of the Bolan are the Government petroleum works, under the direction of two experienced Canadians. These works are expected to be very profitable, and there are indications of petroleum at other places in the same district Gold, too, has been found thirty miles north of Quetta. The National Dress Society very visely draws attention to the inconvenience of the ladies' riding habit the strained, unhealthy and tiring Dosition it feroes a woman to sit in, as well as the injury to thehorse, which has to bear the weight of the rider on one side. The comfort and well being of both horse and rider would be vastly increased if the weight of the body were equally balanced on both sides of the horse, the rider having a dies in which she could assume this position. In such a dress and position not only more comfort but more safety would be obtained by greater mourity of seat and absence of encombering and entangling drapery.

A short line ago Ed. Burfield, the champion seal hunter of New Brighton, S. I, thought he had discovered the whereabouts of a real mermaid, which he said hung about Robbin's. could distinctly hear her singing "Johnny Morgan " and another of his most favourite operas. Mr. Burfield continued in this epinion until George Hayward of Tompkinsville caught a big dogfish, which on its travels had swallowed a small musical box of the "Johnny Morgan" persuasion. Since then Mr. Burfled has given up his mosalight trips to Robbin's ref and says "he passes on the mermaid racket-no singing syringes for him."

IMPERIAL QUARTO. INGLISH AND CHINESE

DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accounts being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore charac- 010.45 termed Uninese publications.

To the illustrate the vast scope of the work following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chilmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who FIHE Oldest and Largest Paper in the understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all anyother local print. Europeans residing in China, and to the natives To parties resident in England and interested
